Loses Race by 4 Lengths on Schuylkill-Blue Yearlings Beaten by Length.

By DANIEL.

Special Despatch to THE SEN. PHILADELPHIA, May 11 .- For the third time this season Pennsylvania crews this afternoon swept the river. Joe Wright's well coached and remarkably conditioned varsity and freshman eights had the easiest kind of a time beating Tale crews over the Henley course of one and eve-sixteenths miles on the Schuylkill. Penn's varsity led the Elli combination by four lengths in the fine time of 6:55. Yale's time was 7:12.

In the freshman race, which was rowed first, Penn won by a bit more than a length in 7:14, as against 7:18:1-5 for the Blue yearlings. The work of the Pennsylvania crews was in keeping with their previous performances this spring.

for the Blue yearlings. The work of the Pennsylvania crews was in keeping with their previous performances this spring.

They rowed with power, smoothness and precision and never left the result in doubt after the first quarter of a mile. In view of their previous double victories on the Severn and Lake Carnegie there is every reason now to believe that the Red and Blue at last has reached the zenith in rowing and that no other crews in the country could even give them a hard race.

To-night Penn is holding a jubilee, for Penn has been waiting for this season of rowing triumph for just eighteen years. It was in 1900, the year the Penn variety won at Poughkeepsie, that the Quakers last had a victorious season on the water, and to-night they are paying due homage to Wright of Toronto, who has mulled Penn out of the season of the mage to Wright of Toronto, who has mulled Penn out of the season on the season on the water, and to-night they are paying due homage to Wright of Toronto, who has mulled Penn out of the season on the season on the water, and to-night they are paying due homage to Wright of Toronto, who has mulled Penn out of the season of the mage to Wright of Toronto, who has mulled Penn out of the season of the mage to Wright of Toronto, who has mulled Penn out of the season of the mage to Wright of Toronto, who

Penn's Work Remarkable.

The work of the Penn variety this afternoon was remarkable in many ways. Considering the fact that the men had to luck an upriver wind and had no appreciable help from the tide their time was more than noteworthy. It was in 143 pounds, one of the lightest men was more than noteworthy. It was in 150 that Penn's crew set the record of the Henley course on the Schuylkill at 6 minutes 22 seconds. That afternoon there was a heavy current and the crew heavier, averaging 172, as against 166 for they had the bags full of the fourth, for they had the bags full of the fourth, for they had the bags full of the fourth, for they had the bags full of the fourth, for they had the bags full of the fourth. The work of the Penn vareity this afthere was a heavy current and the crew was benefited by a favorable wind. With conditions similar to those of 1900 the present Pennsylvania crew some time ago rowed the Henley distance in 6 min-

This afternoon's results were in line ith expectations. While Penn had been owing together since last fall and had he confidence born of its previous tri-imphs. Yale had not taken part in any previous competition this season. Only last week, after the Tale varsity had been made up. Weir and Robinson, two of the best men, were called into naval service and McHenry and Patterson were ent into their places.

There were three veterans in the Eli shell, Hyatt, the stroke and captain; Vail and Mead, but it must be said that Hyatt rowed very much off form. He as as anxious as a freshman and when e got sloppy the whole crew went with

If Tale hopes to make any showing against Harvard on the Housatonic on June 1 it will have to make tremendous improvement even if the Crimson is no better than it was against Princeton two weeks ago.

Tale's freshmen eight, which it had been reported had beaten the varsity over a mile and a half, was a huge disappointment. The Ell varsity was not conceded a chance, but there was some wagering on the freshman contest. In wagering on the freshman contest. In soing over well and last night Wright made a shift in one of the seats. Yale's freshies had been rowing well together and Prof. Mather Abbott, their coach, had held out the prospect of victory.

Ell Cubs Lack Experience.

However, while the Eli freshies seeme te have power they lacked experience. While Penn's yearlings with two races "under their belts" rowed like a finished warning crew, the Yale colts fell to pieces

In the first quarter mile.

The further they rowed the more sloppy they grew, and in the last mile they were throwing up as much spray as an Iron Steamboat. A similar criticism may be made of the Yale varsity. We have seen quite a number of Elicrews in action in short and long races, but never before have we seen a Tale crew row so sloppily and churn up so much water. For them the race was just one long spleab

Just one long splash.

Having done their home rowing on New Haven harbor we thought they would find the calm Schuylkill rather to their liking. Perhaps it was the contrast that threw them off their stroke.

Parkans it was that Pann's craw. Perhaps it was just Penn's crew While there was a slight head wind conditions for the regatta were quite ideal. A warm sun shone out of cloudless skies and Fairmount Park was a mase of green dotted here and there with the course with the Division Despatch to This Sew.

Pivision, May 11—It fell to the lot of Wilbur Cooper, a southpaw hurler on the Pirate staff, to register the first shut out game of the season against the redoubtable Glants, the score being 2 to o. It was the second defeat in succession for the league leaders since they opened the Wilbur Cooper, and the Wastern campaign at Forbes Field, and the opinion was expressed by the local fans that the Glants were due for a squally time before they finished the series in the West. Cooper is a diminutive chap, but is rated one of the best moundamen in the National League. Of the half dosen shut outs recorded against the Glants last season, Cooper had two of them.

Tommy Farrels won his own game for Chicago-Philadelphia game, the Athletics Columbia in spectacular fashion yesterwinning 1 to 0. Risbergs single was day when he knocked out a long home the only hit Perry allowed. Shellenbach run in the tenth inning of the game with held the Athletics hitless for four in- Brown at South Field. Farrell's four nings, but after that they hit safely in base hit made the final score 3 to 2 and every inning. The popular football catches and Jamieson robbed Weaver of a triple by a brilliant catch in the sev-winning blow with two men out and no one on base and with the count two and two against him. Up to the Brown had all the better of the game, although the count in runs was even. first and third innings, while Brown had tallied twice in the seventh, tying the score.

'Knight, the tail, lanky hurler for the 200 5 10 Providence nine, clearly outpitched his rival. Knight allowed only four hits, three of which came in the first three tunings, and he fanned eight batemen Knight drove in both runs scored by the Brunonians. After the third inning his swift crossive shoots moved down the local batsmen in one, two, three order. Columbia made a bid for the game early, scoring in the opening round of hostilities. With one down, Houlihan way around to third on Buonaguro's stinging single. On a long fly by Hauck he judged the play correctly and crossed the plate, beating the throw in by inches. Again in the third the Morningside team got into the run column, this time with the aid of Brown's solitary misplay. Carroll started the inning for Columbia with a single and promptly stole second. He made third easily on Ackerman's single and went all the way home on Garside's error on the play. Knight then tightened up.

Brown evened the count in the seventh walked and MacGuire singled. Knight then came to the rescue with a slashing both Leonard and Knight over the plate. The big pitcher tried to stretch the hit into a triple, but was tagged out stand-ing up as he panted into third, on Good-man's perfect throw to Stickel. Both boxmen pitched well for the next two innings, but Knight was using a puzzling crossfire delivery which completely haffled the Bine and White until Farrell's home run settled the issue in the tenth.
